

Marcel Frei

Marcel Frei holds degrees in Mechanical and Industrial Engineering and completed executive education at the University of St. Gallen. He has extensive international leadership experience in industrial and technology-driven organizations.

He currently serves as Chief Executive Officer of Schenker Storen Group, leading an organization with significant revenue and workforce responsibility. In previous executive roles, including COO and CEO positions in international groups, he was responsible for large-scale operations, cross-border production sites and corporate restructuring initiatives. His professional experience includes corporate strategy, mergers and acquisitions, operational optimization, procurement governance and international supply chain management.

He contributes strategic oversight and organizational scaling experience to the Board of Vaccentis AG.

