

Matt Regan

Matt Regan holds an Executive MBA with distinction and a Bachelor of Science in Polymer Science. He has extensive executive leadership experience in global pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies across Europe and international markets.

He is currently Chief Executive Officer and a member of the Board of Directors of Microcos Pharmaceuticals. In this role, he led the strategic spin-out and further development of the company, including operational build-up, commercialization planning and preparation for capital market transactions. Previously, he held senior leadership roles at Novo Nordisk and AbbVie, overseeing major European markets and high-revenue product portfolios.

His experience includes commercialization strategy, organizational scaling, manufacturing oversight and fundraising processes, contributing valuable capital markets and operational perspective to Vaccentis AG.

